

Think of some friendships that have played an important role in your life. Why have those friendships been so important to you? Can you think of some specific examples of times when those friendships were especially important to you?

Can you remember doing something with a friend that really strengthened your friendship? What exactly did you do? In what ways was your friendship strengthened by what you did together?

Think of a time when your loyalty to a friend was really put to the test. What happened to test your loyalty? What did you do? How did this event affect your friendship?
